B. Background

Mental health (MH) services are provided along a continuum of care where the level of care varies dependent on the type and intensity of services provided. These services involve an integrated system of care, ranging from outpatient services to residential treatment, that offers comprehensive services based on member needs and examines factors such as support systems available, prior life experiences, and behavioral, physical, gender, cultural, cognitive, and/or social factors.

Partial Hospitalization Program (PHP) levels of care provide day treatment for members in a setting that is intensively stru(t)4.3 (s)8.945Tw 5f
